Construction Project Manager to lead multiple new home construction projects in Eastern Nova Scotia, mostly from the Antigonish to Cape Breton area.

Your new company

An established Atlantic Canadian construction company, focusing on residential new build projects is currently looking to hire an experienced and driven Project Manager to join their growing team in Eastern Nova Scotia.

Your new role

In your role of Construction Project Manager you will be responsible for managing and monitoring the full cycle of the construction projects across the territory you are assigned and make sure that all targets & milestones of the project are met. You must prepare and manage the project plan, project budget and project schedule, review subcontractors and ensure they properly fulfill their responsibilities on the job. You will establish strong relationships with consultants, contractors and trades, municipalities and other various partners in order to maximize efficiency. Your job will also entail conducting site meetings, control and monitor labour, material and equipment expenses. Construction site safety will be a constant priority on this job.

What you'll need to succeed

To qualify for this role, you will possess 5-10+ years' experience as a Construction Project Manager in a construction company with a focus on New Build construction projects. You must possess post-secondary education in a construction related subject. A background in Civil Engineering will be advantageous. You must be a hands-on leader and have the ability to plan and manage to a project schedule and have a solid understanding of construction documents. You should also have a superior knowledge of construction costs and a solid track record of building and maintaining effective relationships with clients, owners and consultants.

What you'll get in return

This role offers a salary of $75-80k with benefits, bonus, mileage, gas allowance and paid vacation. This is a career-defining opportunity for a driven, experienced & ambitious construction professional looking to elevate their career and make a lasting impact in the Nova Scotia construction industry.

What you need to do now

If this is an opportunity you are interested in & your background matches the experience required, please send your resume in confidence to Eric Beaudoin. If you feel that it would be a good fit for somebody you know, please feel free to pass along this job posting.
